

PLAY HARD, FIGHT HARD: SPORT AND THE CANADIAN MILITARY

Created in partnership between The Military Museums in Calgary and Canada's Sports Hall of Fame, this exhibit explores the relationship between sports and military service dating back to the late 19th century. Over 200 artefacts across multiple sports are represented, along with the personal stories of Honoured Members from Canada's Sports Hall of Fame that proudly served in several branches of the military. A wide range of sports, from hockey to football to the uniquely military game of Broom-i-loo are featured.

Also highlighted is the Soldier On program, which uses activity and sport to support wounded military members and veterans like Mark Fuchko, who appears in the exhibit. Well known sport heroes like Conn Smythe, Jeff Nicklin and Myrtle Cook are also showcased.

A national exhibit tour of Play Hard, Fight Hard will commence in 2018, designed to suit a variety of venues and exhibit spaces.
